Winter in Italy—A Warning to Invalids.

The following letter appears in the Tribune:
The rainy season of Italy is in the winter months, and an old resident assures me that sometimes they have only twelve bright sunny days in the season. In cities whose streets are narrow and buildings lofty, a rain day brings wet and chilly streets for several days thereafter. On the 14th of November last, I rode into the Bologna in as thick a snow storm as I ever saw in New England. This was to me the winding-up of a three days' Northeast rain storm in Venice. We had so many rainy and cloudy days in December, that I began to take note of the weather with the beginning of the new year. In January we had only one bright sunny day. In February sixteen, and in the first nine days of March two. On the 25th of February we had a heavy fall of snow which was carried from the streets the next day. In that month the ice in the still waters of the Arno, just above
one of the bridges, was four inches thick. February was a cold month.
All the Winter long the wind has been Northeasterly, coming to us over the snow-clad heights of the Apennines. Anyone who has had experience in Italian cities knows that passing from bright sunshine into narrow shady streets is like going into an ice house on a hot Summer day. I cannot conceive of a more trying climate for an invalid than this of Italy. If a medical man of New York should send a patient to Boston to spend the month of March, he would be regarded as insane; but an average March in that city is more favorable to an invalid than our last January in Florence was.

The weather during the last Winter
in Vienna, Milan, Rome and Naples has been as unfriendly to the invalid
as it has been in this city. Indeed, there is no place in Europe that is a suitable Winter resort for invalids,
and whenever one crosses the Atlantic
in quest of such a resort, makes a grave mistake.

I am inclined to think that Americans have a false impression as to the climate of "sunny Italy," and if this brief note acts as a caution to any suffering invalid who is proposing to try the climate, my object will be accomplished. J. STOCKBRIDGE,
U. S. Navy.

Florence, March 13, 1875.

He will be succeeded in his practice by Dr. J. C. Kirkpatrick, lately from Ohio. Dr. K. is already most favorably known both professionally and socially to a number of our most prominent residents.

One of the finest improvements in the city will be the re-building of the Lafayette Hotel. The whole of the back of the house is already being torn down, and the front will shortly be built up. The stores will be just half as large as they are now, and, as the important has a very large stock on hand, they will not have half room enough for their goods and in order to prevent them from being damaged by dirt and dust, they have decided to sell all their Spring goods at less than cost, and others, such as cottons, table linen, etc., at exact cost. We advise all to call at the important and convince themselves of the great bargains. Such bargains they can never get again, and in order to prevent a great rush, we advise all to call early and take advantage of the building of the Lafayette Hotel. al6

25 pieces summer poplins, reduced to 25 cts. per yard; 50 pieces grass cloth, reduced to 15 cts. per yard; Lawns, Fleeces, Nanooks, Grenadines and other dress goods in great variety at the lowest prices at the Bazaar, corner of Main and Requena streets, opp. U. S. Hotel. ml:lm

The auction sales of the Santa Gertrudes lands fixed for the 19th, 20th and 21st of the month have been unavoidably postponed in consequence of the illness of the survey and the managing agent Mr. Edward McLean. The postponed contemplates the sale of the property on the 26th, 27th and 28th of May. :april:td

If you want a good suit of clothes for a little money, go to the Bazaar, corner of Main and Requena streets, and get one of those $12 suits, worth $17. ml:lm

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1875.

MR. V. K. STRODE has disposed of his interest in the Visalia Times and strode out of the sanctum. Mr. BUTZ will in the future endeavor to but the Times along in the even tenor of its way.

EVERYTHING must have an end in this world. A poor man's rights will hang in law like a miser's fingers to a half eagle, but it must come out at last. And so the seemingly interminable suit of Pico vs Cuyas—the Jarndyce and Jarndyce of Los Angeles—has reached a period which it is to be hoped is final. It is to be desired now that the law has given him possession of the property, MR. CUYAS will hasten the opening of the Pico House as a first class hotel. It is greatly needed.

SANTA BARBARA is promised a harvest of newspapers. She now has one daily and two weeklies, and two more dailies are soon to be started. One of the new ventures is to be a sort of female organ, and the other an out and out advocate of Republican principles and nominees. The money invested in these two daily papers is just so much cash thrown away. Santa Barbara now has two weeklies and one daily paper. They occupy the field fully and completely, and the attempt to make room for more is simply to import a lot of new type and presses which will ultimately pass into the hands of JOHNSON, of the Press, at the price of old material.

CROP reports from the different parts of the county are very favorable. In the vicinity of Anaheim, Orange and Tustin the grain presents a fine appearance and the crop will be good. The same report comes from Los Nietos and surroundings. In San Jose valley the wheat and barley has come out splendidly within the last two weeks and the prospect for a fair crop is very good. From San Fernando valley, where two weeks ago it was feared nothing would be grown, we have reports that considerable grain will be harvested. The cool, cloudy weather and heavy fogs of the last fortnight have done wonders for the San Fernando grain fields. Altogether the reports from the farmers of this county are good and assure us that while in other portions of the State nothing will be harvested, here the husbandman will reap a fair reward for his labor.

THEY do things in a manner peculiarly their own up in San Francisco. For instance, a former grand jury called a number of teachers in the public schools before it, and from them learned that the position of teacher was being sold to the highest bidder for cash. The grand jury hauled the Board of Education over the coals, and the Board of Education investigated the matter to the extent of discharging the teachers who had given the information to the grand jury, thus offering a premium to those having knowledge of an irregularity to keep it to themselves. Now comes another grand jury, and after censuring the action of the Board of Education, urges the reinstatement of the dismissed teachers. Curious people, those Yerba Buena settlers.

Developing His Plans.

The object of Senator JONES in running the Santa Monica wharf out to water of sufficient depth to accommodate the largest class of steamers was probably more comprehensive than anticipated by many of our citizens at the time the order was made. It is presumed that much of the richest ore that will hereafter be taken from the Panamint, Coso and other mines in Inyo county can be more profitably and advantageously reduced by sending it to England than by crushing it at the mills in the vicinity of the mines. The most direct route over which this ore can be shipped to Swansea is down the coast from this city to Panama, over the Panama Railroad to Aspinwall, and thence by way of St. Thomas to England. Senator JONES seems to be preparing the route for the shipment of this ore. He is building a railroad from the mines to Santa Monica; at that point he is building a wharf to water deep enough to float the Panama steamers, and he has become part owner and President of the Panama Railroad. Thus he controls all the railroad over which the ore from his mines will travel on its way to the reduction works at Swansea. If he finds it necessary to his plans to place his own steamers on the water portion of the route, he has the means and nerve to do so. Another and primary advantage which his control of the Panama road will give him, is the rapid transportation of his own supplies and material. While JONES holds control of the Panama railroad he is able to wield a powerful influence against the monopoly of the freight business by the overland railroad and the steamship company, and he may use his power in the establishment of an opposition steamship line between New York and San Francisco, which will prove a fortunate turn of the wheel for the people of the Pacific Coast. One thing is quite certain—the Senator is expanding his plans and giving evidence of possessing a much longer head than he has been credited with.

The Situation.

Our latest private advices from San Francisco place the Democratic candidates for Governor something in this wise: FARLEY has dropped out of the contest. ROACH is making a single-handed fight on his merit and honesty, and as he is willing that the Convention shall make its nomination on this basis, he is making no exertion to secure the election of delegates pledged to himself. JAMES L. ENGLISH, of Sacramento, one of the noblest Romans of them all, is pursuing a like policy, and is making many staunch friends by so doing. RYLAND of Santa Clara is making a kind of guerrilla fight, but there is but little system and no great amount of strength in his campaign. Ex-Congressman JOHNSON has some pretensions, and will secure a portion of the San Francisco delegation. His strength outside of the city is not known. At this time it is, perhaps, nothing; though trading and combination may give him a respectable number of votes in the Convention. J. P. HOGG is out of the contest. He fell by the wayside—fell beneath the clubs of those who pretended to be his friends and induced him to make the venture. The Colonel is scalped, or would have been, had his cap not been in the condition of that of "Uncle Ned" of minstrel fame. It is just as well that the Colonel is knocked on the head. He has been rather an ornamental than useful appendage to the Democratic party for some years, and in those days when it was not very popular to be a Democrat, he was never unduly vehement in protesting his principles. THOMAS FINDLEY, of Nevada county, and WILLIAM IRWIN, of Siskiyou county, though as unlike as chalk and cheese, and whose personal regard for each other is nothing like so warm as the friendship of DAMON and PYTHIAS or that of STEVE GAGE and MARCUS D. BORUCK, must be considered together, for the simple reason that while FINDLEY is much the stronger and better man, certain influences in the city while ostensibly working for FINDLEY are in fact trying to steal his strength to be used in securing the nomination of IRWIN. It is understood among IRWIN managers that when delegations cannot be secured for him they will be given to FINDLEY in the expectation that after the first two or three ballots they can be manipulated in the interest of IRWIN. FINDLEY nor his friends are aware of this well laid scheme by which it is hoped to defeat his nomination, and secure that of the man of all others to whom he is most opposed. The object of the IRWIN managers has leaked out and its publicity will probably work their defeat unless they can show that FINDLEY made a combination with them. This, of course, they cannot do. The Spring Valley Water Company and one or two other powerful corporations of San Francisco are secretly throwing their influence for IRWIN, which is an indication that they have selected him as the man of all others on whom they can rely not to do anything which will interfere with themselves or their schemes.

Blowing.

We may in California draw the long bow occasionally, but still the truth seems almost incredible. When we compare our gigantic products with the pigmy products of the East, their surprise at our large stories is excusable. When they hear of our conquering nature and chaining the mountain torrent, so that it becomes the peaceful irrigating ditch, a smile of incredulity overspreads the face of the Eastern tourist. In view of these facts it may be well to give him the whole story by degrees. Don't tell him that an orange orchard in this county has 100,000 trees, but break it gently to him that the owner of a small orchard receives for his annual crop a princely income, without touching it. Don't mention your grapes by the ton or your wine by the thousand gallons, but commence quietly by telling him that grapes sell at seventy-five cents to one dollar per hundred pounds, and he will have a realizing sense of their abundance. The following from the San Diego World is apposite:

We have heard gentlemen complain of these things—so much fulsome bragado, as they called it. There may be some justice in the complaints. We hope not. Still people will think so. Among strangers it has proven to be a proved, almost, that Californians overdraw their statements, and there are two ways in which we may explain that matter. In the first place, it is not good policy to tell the whole story at once to new comers. If you say you have pumpkins that will weigh thirty or forty pounds, that is as much as their weak stomachs can stand at a time. If you tell them your pumpkins will weigh seventy or a hundred pounds, they conclude you are blowing, or have no pumpkins. If you write back home that a team will move 30,000 pounds, they will believe you have unwittingly added a nought to too much, because they do not do business that way back East, and so on ad infinitum. Better give a little slow with them. Give them such doses as they can take, and, withal, be a little modest even with that. There is too much "blow" in our newspapers, and occasionally in some of the people. The State can be better presented by less of it, and more real facts. But the thing works both ways like a two edged sword.

Kansas and California.

The following from the Fort Scott Monitor, a prominent Kansas daily, shows that jealousy of California has even attacked the drouthy, chintz-bug and grasshopper State:

The tide of emigration to California this Spring, says the Champion, astonished every one, except those who went. It was wholly unequalled in the history of the country, and as unaccountable as unequalled. Why the rush commenced is a mystery. How everybody expected to live after they reached the gold slope is a problem that no one has ever been able to solve. And yet in the month of March 9,300 persons passed Kearney Junction bound for San Francisco, and of this number over seven thousand were persons who had in all probability expended their last dollar to pay railroad fare.

Gentlemen who have just returned from San Francisco inform us that the prospect of making a living there is a little less than any other place they have ever seen. Hundreds of able-bodied men, who had spent their last dollar for transportation, are begging bread in the streets and sleeping in barns and out houses. The picture drawn is distressing in the extreme, and affords an excellent illustration of the old saying, "All that glitters is not gold."

We are informed, also, that numbers who have tried the golden experiment daily pass Kearney Junction on their way East. Most of them are "dead broke," and are aiming to "dead beat" their way home. They say they have been bitterly deceived, and if they can reach the "old stamping ground" again, they won't be very easily induced to leave it.

The golden bubble has about burst, but we cannot pass without comment the infamous lies contained in the editorial. The editor cannot account for the rush to California, and yet he has published day after day notices of California's contributions to feed the starving Kansans. Why the rush commenced is a mystery (!) and it is equally a mystery why rats leave a sinking ship, why people leave tottering houses in an earthquake. Kansas is starving and California is feeding her, so it is just as natural for her people to emigrate as for old Jacob to send his sons to Egypt for corn. People go where they can get money and food, and where they can live in comfort. Industrious men can get work anywhere in California. Our farmers need hands, our contractors need mechanics and improvements, need capital. Capital is welcome, skilled labor is needed and common labor is well paid. We have room for all the inhabitants of Kansas in Los Angeles county, and then we can lay Kansas across the ends of Los Angeles and San Diego counties, without crowding the people. Perhaps the editor of the Monitor can see it in this light.

The team went about a quarter of a mile further on and was stopped by running into a telegraph pole. An inquest was held and a verdict of accidental death by being run over was rendered. Deceased, who was a native of Ireland, aged 45 years, and an resident of this city, leaves a wife and four children.

Homicide in Amador County.

JACKSON, CAL., May 1.—A shooting affray occurred last evening on the road between Plymouth and Drytown, during which David Ryall shot and it is believed mortally wounded a man named Michael Pierson. The cause of the trouble is a lawsuit between them. Pierson was driving along the road with a son of Ryall's on the wagon seat, when he was met by Ryall, who with shotgun in hand, ordered Pierson to get down and come to a settlement. Pierson got down and said he wanted to explain matters, but Ryall raised his gun to shoot. Pierson caught it, and while trying to get it away, Ryall drew a revolver, firing two shots, one ball lodging in Pierson's stomach and the other in his arm. Ryall then fired a shot at his own son, but failed to hit him. Ryall was arrested and is in jail there. A dispatch this morning reports Pierson's death.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1875.

THE OLD IRON KETTLE.

The bluebirds have come with their merry-sounding greeting.

The sun from the South land has crossed over the line.

The crows in the hemlocks are holding town-meeting.

'Tis time to make sugar. I know by the sign. Then let us away, where the maples are growing.

And gather a harvest the Springtime to crown.

Bring the buckets and spouts, and set the sap flowing.

Then hang on the kettle and syrup it down. The old iron kettle, the sooty black kettle.

The time-honored kettle of ancient renown.

How the thought of that kettle to memory awakens

The days of my childhood and pleasures of boyhood.

The cares of the present lie dumb and benighted.

While the scenes of the by-gone flock round me again.

Beside a burning log the old kettle is swinging. Supported by stakes driven deep in the ground.

While up through the forest in echoes go ringing.

The shouts of the children, while playing around.

As they watch the old kettle, the sooty black kettle.

The time-honored kettle of ancient renown.

They heed not the smoke that is grilling their faces.

Nor care for the ashes that powder their hair.

They love the free willowwood, and best of all places.

Or cool on the snow with a comelier brown.

And never swing hearts to a happier note Than the hearts of those children, that kettle around.

As the time-honored kettle, the sooty black kettle.

The time-honored kettle of ancient renown.

On the Spring a richer crimson comes

Upon the robin's breast.

In the Spring the warbling vireo seeks the leaf that tastes the best.
